Introduction to the story: Llanta's revenge

In an old book retrieved in Arbor, Llanta, an old Sorcerer from Qurikokue, understands the power of a tree that lives only on the uninhabited "Nana Rumi" islands; that tree is able to empower her acalican magic. She travels there, find the old tree and pick a stick from the tree. Llanta finds a way to put in act her revenge thanks to a magic formula found in an old spellbook and casts her curse upon Loreland in the form of a dense mist that slowly turns everything grey except for the tip of the tallest mountain in the land: Mount Damavant, in the far land of Ashtad (the home of young Kian). The fog causes the inhabitants of Loreland to forget their treasured memories, traditions, and their folklore. Aven, an explorer from AElfenshire, finds herself close to the mountain where Llanta lives: the tall Mount Jarka. While exploring she sees the fog first and also sees three goons flying away with the orbs containing the trapped colors.
